How each one works

STRC Strategy · Stretch

Strategy's variable-rate preferred: Strategy resets the rate to keep the price near $100 (12.00% for periods from Oct 16, 2026, and for November record dates, per its Oct 1 and Oct 16 8-Ks). Dividends are cumulative.

- Pays Semi-monthly: Record dates the 15th and month-end; daily dividends for Nov 1–30 conditionally declared at 12.00% ($1.00/share in total), payable only if the Oct 28 vote passes
- Next Record date for the Nov 15 payment ($0.50/share), which applies only if the Oct 28 daily-dividend vote fails; if it passes, daily record dates start Nov 1 (first payment Nov 2)
- Source Strategy 8-Ks, Oct 1 & Oct 16, 2026; 10-Q Q2 2026

STRF Strategy · Strife

Most senior of Strategy's preferreds: a fixed 10% rate on $100, and missed dividends accrue (cumulative).

- Pays Quarterly: Mar 31 / Jun 30 / Sep 30 / Dec 31, when declared
- Next Q4 dividend not declared yet (scheduled pay date Dec 31)
- Source Strategy 10-Q Q2 2026

STRK Strategy · Strike

Fixed 8% rate on $100 plus an equity link: each share can convert into 0.1 MSTR share. Dividends can be paid in cash, MSTR stock or both.

- Pays Quarterly: Mar 31 / Jun 30 / Sep 30 / Dec 31, when declared; cash, MSTR stock or both
- Next Q4 dividend not declared yet (scheduled pay date Dec 31)
- Source Strategy 10-Q Q2 2026

STRD Strategy · Stride

Most junior Strategy preferred: a fixed 10% rate, but dividends are at the board's discretion and skipped ones never accrue (non-cumulative). That is why it usually trades at the highest effective yield.

- Pays Quarterly: Mar 31 / Jun 30 / Sep 30 / Dec 31, when declared
- Next Q4 dividend not declared yet (scheduled pay date Dec 31)
- Source Strategy 10-Q Q2 2026

SATA Strive · SATA

Strive's variable-rate preferred: 13.00% for October 2026 (Strive 8-K, Sep 15), paid each business day; Strive aims for it to trade between $99 and $101. Dividends are cumulative.

- Pays Daily: Each business day in October ($0.0516/share), record date the prior business day

Six ideas that explain every preferred

Par and stated rate
Each share has a $100 reference amount. The stated rate is paid on that $100, not on what you paid. 10% stated = $10 a year per share.

Effective yield
Buy below $100 and you earn more than the stated rate on your money; buy above and you earn less. That is why STRD and STRK show higher effective yields.

Cumulative vs non-cumulative
Cumulative (STRF, STRC, STRK, SATA): a skipped dividend is owed later. Non-cumulative (STRD): a skipped dividend is gone. That difference is a big part of STRD's higher yield.

Seniority
The order of claims if the company is wound up. STRF is first among Strategy's preferreds, STRD last; all preferreds rank ahead of common stock and behind debt.

Fixed vs variable
Fixed-rate series move with interest rates and credit risk, so their price can drift far from $100. Variable-rate series (STRC, SATA) have their rate adjusted to keep the price near $100.

Conversion
Only STRK converts into common stock (0.1 MSTR per share), so it also moves with MSTR. The others are pure income instruments.

Risks to understand: dividends must be declared by the board; prices can fall well below par; fixed-rate series lose value when rates rise; all of these depend on the issuer's ability to raise capital and on the bitcoin price. Read the prospectus and latest 10-Q before relying on any figure here.
